

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

BUREAU OF THE MINT

Washington,

September 23, 1899.

Edward J. Baldwin,
Assistant Cashier, National Park Bank,
New York, N. Y.

In reply to your letter of the 21st instant, you are respectfully informed that under the act of January 29th, 1874, coinage can be executed at the Mints of the United States for foreign countries, and coinage for other countries has been executed upon several occasions.

I will state, however, that it would be impossible for the Mint at this time, to undertake the manufacture of coins for any foreign country as they are now running to their full capacity upon orders for own government.

There are two or three private concerns in the United States, among whom are the Scovill Manufacturing Co., of Waterbury, Connecticut, who are prepared to manufacture nickel and bronze coins.

Respectfully yours,

Director of the Mint.

Sir:

In reply to your letter of the 21st instant, you are respectfully informed that under the act of January 29th, 1874, coinage can be executed at the Mints of the United States for foreign countries, and coinage for other countries has been executed upon several occasions.

I will state, however, that it would be impossible for the Mint at this time, to undertake the manufacture of coins for any foreign country as they are now running to their full capacity upon coinage for [our] own government.

There are two or three private concerns in the United States, among whom are the Scovill Manufacturing Co., of Waterbury, Connecticut, who are prepared to manufacture nickel and bronze coins.

Respectfully yours,
[Signature] George E. Roberts,
Director of the Mint.
